A frame work agreement tender was advertised in the Government Gazette, Sunday Mail and was uploaded on the eGP portal. The first tender was previously concluded through SPOC Resolution No.0768 of 24 October 2024 (see attached SPOC document) and 5 companies namely C.S Medical, Investmed, Flancon, Aravas and DMD Healthcare were shortlisted. Five bidders namely Flancon, Coromed, Elite, Renaissance and Limaël responded to tender. Flancon's bid was not considered because the bidder is already shortlisted on the framework agreement. Coromed, Elite, Renaissance and Limaël's bids are complaint to administrative requirements and technical requirements on quoted items. The committee recommends that the hospital to engage Coromed, Elite, Renaissance and Limaël to be added on the existing Framework agreement on the products tabled below. The framework agreement will be valid for 3 years. However, the Hospital will open up the framework agreement in order to add more bidders on board within the period of 90 days.

RE: REQUEST FOR REVIEW BY THE SPECIAL PROCUREMENT OVERSIGHT COMMITTEE (SPOC): TENDER NO. UBH/FRAM01/2024- SUPPLY AND DELIVERY OF SURGICAL SUNDRIES

Your minute dated 21 January, 2025 refers.

At the Special Procurement Oversight Committee (SPOC) Meeting No.12 of 2025 held virtually on 17 April 2024, Members observed the following: -

- SPOC Resolution 0768 of 24 October 2024, "Certified" to the best of its knowledge and ability that the Accounting Officers proposed shortlist withstands scrutiny and recommended that the Accounting Officer can proceed to shortlist and enter into Framework Agreements with 5 x compliant bidders on Tender No UBH/FRAM01/2024 for the Supply and Delivery of Surgical Sundries under Framework Agreement, as follows: -
 1. Cooley Somsak Medical P/L
 2. Aravas Pharmaceuticals P/L
 3. Flancon Investments P/L
 4. Investmed Health Care P/L
 5. Devices & Diposals P/L
- The same resolution ordered the Accounting Officer to: -
 - Open up the procurement process so as to engage more suppliers on the procurement process by re-advertising the requirements within a period of 90 days.
 - Conduct mini-competitions amongst recommended bidders to ensure that engagement results in the attainment of value for money at the secondary stage.
 - Conduct due diligence on price to ensure value for money is attained on a call off contracts.
 - Submit Quarterly Reports for the calculation of Contract Administration fees in line with Part VI of the Fifth Schedule to the PPDPA (General) Regulations, as amended.
- The Accounting Officer re-advertised the requirements for the Framework Agreement to the public for additional bidders to be shortlisted and 11 x bidders participated.

- Of the 11 x bids received, the Accounting Officer did not evaluate the bids received from Flancon Investments P/L and Investmed Health Care P/L, since they had been shortlisted on the initial process submission considered through SPOC Resolution 0768 of 24 October 2024.
- There was a weakness on the eGP template created on the system by the Accounting Officer since the template did not provide any slots for bidders to upload the following mandatory requirements, which were not part of the Standard Bidding Document, rendering it impossible for the bidders to attain full compliance, in violation of the provisions of section 40(4), 50 and 55 of the Public Procurement and Disposal of Public Assets (PPDPA) Act [Chapter 22:23], as follows: -
 - a) Bid Submission Sheet
 - b) Company Profile
 - c) Certificate of Incorporation
 - d) Valid Tax Clearance Certificate
 - e) CR14
 - f) Vendor Number
 - g) Valid Proof of NSSA Contributions
 - h) PRAZ Registration Certificate
 - i) Proof of payment of SPOC Administration fees
 - j) Bid validity of 60 days
 - k) A statement of non-conflict of interest
 - l) Delivery within 5 days
 - m) Current Bank Statement (3 Months)
 - n) Payment after delivery (bidder must confirm).
- Bidders were therefore not able to submit all the aforementioned requirements on the eGP template as prescribed within the Standard Bidding document hence the process does not result in the achievement of public procurement objectives as set under section 4 of the PPDPA Act.
- The Accounting Officer should be advised to ensure that all Standard Bidding Documents and eGP templates provide bidders with all information they require to submit successful compliant bids in line with section 40 of the PPDPA Act.
- The Accounting Officer was recommending to shortlist and add 3 x non-compliant bidders (Coromed Suppliers and Distributors P/L, Cyclone Medicals P/L and Riverpine Holdings P/L) that failed to submit proof of payment of SPOC Administration fees in violation of the provisions of section 40(4), 50 and 55 of the Act.

Accordingly, the SPOC through SPOC RESOLUTION 0768B of 24 April 2025, having reviewed the Accounting Officer's submission in terms of section 54 (10) of the Public Procurement and Disposal of Public Assets (PPDPA) Act [Chapter 22:23], RESOLVED on Tender No. UBH/FRAM01/2024 as follows: -

Reforms to cut business costs, boost economic growth

'Reserved sectors policy will mainstream locals in economy'

Tapwanashe Mangwiro
Zimbabwe Business Pulse

Dr. Prosper Chitambaro

THE Government's decision to operationalise the reserved sectors policy framework marks an important step in its long-standing desire to mainstream local participation in the economy.

At a time when more than 60 percent of domestic economic activity occurs informally, the policy aims to shift the balance by creating economic space for locals to operate businesses in areas dominated by small enterprises, while remaining open to foreign capital in strategic and capital intensive sectors.

Announcing the decision during the post-Cabinet briefing last week, Information, Publicity and Broadcasting Services Minister Dr. Jerfan Muswero said the reserved areas policy would apply to industries with low barriers to entry, such as artisanal mining, bakeries, advertising, transport, beauty services and retail pharmacies, among others.

Cabinet's intention, he stressed, was not to shut out foreign investment, but to ensure that locals have guaranteed access to the mainstream economy.

Economist Dr. Prosper Chitambaro believes the policy, if implemented carefully, could have a transformative impact on the structure of the economy.

"Reserved sectors are a practical instrument for inclusive growth," he explained.

"They allow governments to ring-fence opportunities for their citizens, particularly in low-capital industries where foreign participation often squeezes out locals."

"For an economy like Zimbabwe's where informality is dominant, this framework creates an avenue for small players to graduate into the formal economy."

Dr. Chitambaro added that such frameworks can also encourage tax compliance and widen the revenue base as more businesses are drawn into the formal fold.

He, however, cautioned that enforcement would be key, noting that without a robust monitoring system, the risk is that the policy remains on paper while control is retained by better-resourced external players through proxies.

THE IMF's analysis has laid the ongoing reforms by the Government to cut business costs, accelerate economic growth, once fully implemented will be pivotal in the smooth transition to and implementation of the National Development Strategy 2 (NDS2). Zimbabwe is reviewing its regulatory conditions to ease the burden on businesses, reduce bureaucratic hurdles and lower compliance costs to improve the overall cost of doing business and competitiveness.

In line with the aspirations of Vision 2030 of transforming Zimbabwe into an upper middle income economy, the NDS2 is an economic blueprint to complete the second five-year medium term development plan, riding on the success of NDS1, running from January 2021 to December 2025.

The NDS1 succeeded the Transitional Stabilisation Programme (TSP), a short term economic blueprint implemented from 2018 to 2020. The Second Republic introduced the NDS1 as a roadmap for transformative and inclusive growth.

Building on NDS1, the forthcoming NDS2 will serve as the lead phase of the country's development agenda, driving it towards 2030 aspirations.

In an online webinar hosted by the Public Policy and Research Institute (PPRI) titled Zimbabwe Government Reduction of Licences, Permits and Fees Opportunities and Risks for Business and Ordinary Citizens, economic analysts commended the Government for the ease of doing business initiatives.

With a commitment to review the fees, licences, fees and permits across 12 key sectors, the Government initiatives seek to simplify processes for business, ultimately leading to a more conducive environment for economic growth.

Prominent economist and government advisor, Professor Ashok Chitambaro, who is also a member of the Reserve Bank of Zimbabwe Monetary Policy Committee (MPC), said the Government was going to ensure all sectors are reviewed.

"The part of the committee led by the Office of the President and Cabinet (OPC), which is actually reviewing these fees, licences, fees and permits to put the whole process in play, so the review basically is that this exercise is going to continue to cover all sectors of the economy."

"We have already completed the livestock sector. We are working on the agricultural sector, agricultural production and inputs along with stakeholders," he said.

"The tourism sector has been completed and it has been approved by Cabinet while it is with President Mangwira for his assent. So once it is done, the review in tourism will be revealed."

He said likewise the transport sector has been completed and approved by the Cabinet, and next they will move on to the retail sector and then manufacturing and all sectors of the economy are completed.

Prof. Chitambaro said the matrices in which they compile all the data on fees, licences, fees and permits were being obtained with close consultation with all the relevant stakeholders.

He added "This exercise is home grown and while we do have support from international agencies, we have borrowed the methodology from the World Bank. It is led domestically and it has the political will behind it, which is why it is progressing."

"So the logic behind it is very simple, if we are to attain an upper middle income status, we require very substantial rates of growth of seven percent plus."

"As you know because of the current situation in which we are isolated from international finance, domestic resources are only adequate for us to achieve rates of maybe four to six percent."

Prof. Chitambaro said the only way the country could achieve higher rates of growth was through improved productivity, including agriculture, manufacturing and tourism sectors, among others, by creating an enabling environment for businesses.

National University of Science and Technology (NUST) executive dean for the Faculty of Commerce, Dr. Peter Mhanda, said the new reforms were going to be of benefit to both businesses and citizens.

"There are going to be benefits for small to medium enterprises (SMEs), for smallholder farmers and also for ordinary citizens."

"Then, for ordinary citizens, I would say the ease of doing business itself makes it easy for those who want to get into the SME sector."

"If you have a sector to do business, the process has been simplified now with fewer requirements and lower fees to deal with," he said.

Then there is going to be a reduced cost for citizens.

"I'm sure that we are going to see a lot of other fees that are going to come up, making things affordable to the ordinary citizens who will also benefit from less bureaucracy."

He said the new reforms will ensure businesses will be able to compete, have a market share and ensure profitability while promoting the formalisation of MSMEs, a major contributor to Zimbabwe's economy, employing millions and contributing significantly to the gross domestic product (GDP).

Adding his input, Mr. Ernest Mhlongoni from OPC, said all these efforts by the Government were going to benefit businesses and citizens for the betterment of our economy.

He said "We believe that if the reductions are going to financially impact the regulatory sector, it indicates that our regulatory framework is not the right size and the reform in NDS2 we have made a proposal to undertake the review of our regulatory institutional framework."

Mr. Mhlongoni said this will ensure that they ascertain whether over 10 regulators are needed or fewer will do and can be supported by the economy.

Giving examples, he said the country could benefit from best practices also being done in other countries like Rwanda and Seychelles, whose licensing and regulation are mostly done by centralised entities.

Economist Trade and Investment Specialist, Professor Tapwa Mashakada, who is also the former Minister of Economic Planning (2009 to 2013), said reducing the cost of doing business was key to luring domestic and foreign investors as well as stimulating economic growth.

"However, the slashing of these licences, permits and fees is not enough per se until the requisite regulation is revised or revised. We need new statutory instruments, a new regulatory environment and new laws that will effect these good abstract measures," he said.

He commended the Government for doing a good job and revising its regulatory and tax framework in order to reduce the cost of doing business, while it must also be done in a manner that does not compromise health and safety standards, including the environment.

Prof. Mashakada called for looking at the implications of the measures on tax revenues.

Wrapping up the discussion as the facilitator, Erupane State University (ESU) lecturer in economics, Ms. Pretty Nyathi called for all stakeholders participation in reform consultations to ensure all inputs are incorporated for policies that contribute to economic development.

When maturity is misunderstood

Gabriel Manyeruke

THE recent viral explicit video circulating on social media — showing two 16-year-old boys from Masasi High School in Manicaland sexually abusing a girl aged 17 — has sent shockwaves through the education sector.

THE boys reportedly recorded this appalling criminal act on a mobile phone after allegedly drugging the victim.

Now under investigation by the Zimbabwe Republic Police, the incident is not merely a tragic case of juvenile delinquency but a sobering wake-up call to schools, parents and society at large.

This tragic act of sexual abuse is not an isolated incident.

Towards the end of the academic year, many schools witness a troubling trend as some Form Four and Upper Sixth candidates, who will be on the verge of completing their secondary education, begin to perceive themselves as adults.

The perceived maturity, however, is often misguided.

While some learners remain focused on revision and performance, others spiral into reckless behaviour — seeking attention, testing boundaries and undermining the very institutions that nurtured them.

Instead of embracing responsibility, some poorly groomed candidates resort to disruptive antics such as defying dress codes, skipping lessons, experimenting with drugs and engaging in unethical conduct — all under the illusion that writing public exams makes them untouchable.

This misplaced excitement often leads to irreversible consequences.

Phones: A double-edged sword

The misuse of mobile phones in schools has become a growing concern.

In the recent case, the boys used their phone not only to commit a crime but to document it — an act that reflects both moral decay and digital irresponsibility.

Learners must be taught that phones are tools for academic research and communication, not toys.

Schools should enforce strict policies on phone usage, while parents must monitor their children's digital footprints.

A child with data but no guidance is vulnerable to the darkest corners of the internet, where they are exposed to unfiltered content, pornography and harmful social media trends.

Without proper oversight, phones become tools of distraction rather than instruments of learning.

Schools must tighten their grip on discipline

No institution is immune to indiscipline and assuming "it will not happen here" is a dangerous gamble.

School heads, counsellors and teachers must work collectively to reinforce school rules, especially during the examination period.

Random checks, mentorship programmes and counselling can go a long way in curbing delinquency.

Parents too must remain vigilant. They should monitor not only what their children are doing online but also who they are associating with.

The home must reinforce the values taught at school, such as respect and responsibility.

Maturity is not mischief

Writing public examinations is a sign of academic growth, not moral exemption.

Candidates must understand that they are still learners under the guidance of teachers. The notion that one can "sign out" of school with a bang — through wild parties, vandalism or sexual misconduct — is not only immature but self-destructive.

Academic transition should be marked by dignity, not disgrace.

Peer pressure is a powerful force

Learners must be encouraged to associate with friends who are academically focused and morally upright.

Schools can support this by promoting positive role models and discouraging cliques that glorify rebellion.

Let justice and guidance prevail. The involvement of the police and court services in the recent case is a necessary step towards justice and healing.

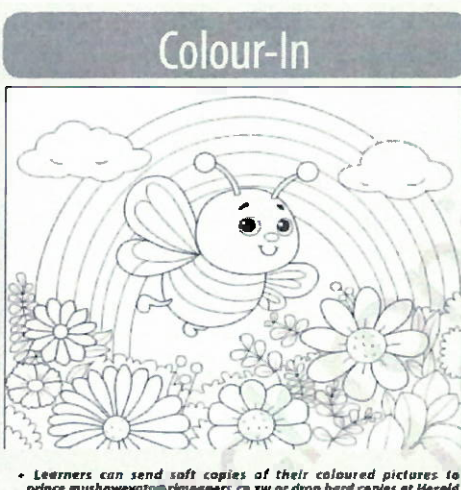

But prevention is better than cure. Schools must be proactive, not reactive. Discipline should not be feared — it should be embraced as a safeguard for learners' futures.

As candidates sit their public exams, let them remember that their behaviour today shapes their tomorrow. Let schools and parents unite to protect the promise of education from being tarnished by excitement gone wrong. Every candidate deserves to finish their exams with pride, not shame.

A veil of false sunshine

Letwin Machaya

No soul suspects this artifice of joy, this polished, ready smile I offer them — a radiant mask, meticulously deployed, a flawless, empty, glittering facade. The true reflection of my heart's content lies tethered to the days we shared before, a fragile echo of a past moment sent to linger on the threshold of your door. For when I closed the volume of that time,

I knew I left my genuine self behind with you, they are completely blind to my quiet sorrow, my tears are secret, they will never trace My throat weeps echo with a mania, faded laugh tomorrow, but every sound is a prayer for your face in the load confusion of their careless cheer, a silent, desperate chant begins to rise Oh, to dissolve this distance, to draw you near to meet your memory in these lonely eyes

The common world perceives a pitiful soul, a fortress standing resolute and whole. They cannot fathom how profoundly I feel the fracture widening through my guarded soul. They speak in platitudes of strength that assuring me this pain will surely pass and that no wound of sorrow truly lasts. But I stand here beneath the shadow's ghost, fearing this storm is the storm that breaks the hills, and one day, surely, silently, subtly its dark, unending promise to destroy.

Their misplaced pity sends me fleeing, a narrow beam of unworldly light and grace.

Yet in this stillness, there is no true peace, my heart is gripped by chains they cannot see.

I am a prisoner within this fragile shell, bound to a maze of unspoken, aching need, trapped in the intricate silence of a spell where every played joy is a loss sent. No one discovers the depth of this true yearning.

The essential, vital role you played for me, they trust my competence, my strength, learning, assuming I manage this life independently. But when the lamp is extinguished and shadows grow, when the constructed world of day has flown, that is the hour when the mask comes down, and so I weep in earnest, utterly alone.
